Legislation

Part-Time Workers (Prevention of Less Favourable Treatment) Regulations 2000

Fixed-Term Workers (Prevention of Less Favourable Treatment) Regulations 2002

Equality Act 2010

1 Corporate Training Needs

- 1.1 The council's Corporate Plan defines the council's corporate priorities over a three year period during which time they are reviewed regularly.

- 1.2 Flowing from these corporate priorities are a series of operational strategies, and each service manager is required to draw up an annual Service Plan identifying the resources required (including training needs) and the key targets and objectives for their service area. Each annual Service Plan is reviewed at the end of the year to assess objectives achieved.
- 1.3 Managers undertake appraisals of their staff, to set individual targets and to identify the training they will require to achieve their objectives. Changes in corporate objectives will be reflected in the annual Service Plan and individual staff appraisals.

2 The Needs of New Entrants

- 2.1 In line with the council's equalities and recruitment and selection procedures a job profile will be prepared for all vacancies identifying the essential qualifications and skills required of the post holder.

All staff must complete and pass the on-line Corporate Induction Programme in order to pass their probationary period. This contains a number of basic modules relevant to local government employment. The content of the induction programme will be regularly reviewed to ensure its continuing relevance. In addition to the Corporate Induction Programme, all employees will receive a Health & Safety Induction within two months of joining the council. Further health and safety training and ICT skills training where necessary will be completed within three months where possible of the training need being identified..

- 2.2 Chichester Contract Services (CCS) has a separate induction programme for its staff.
- 2.3 Within a new starter's first week an induction meeting with a member of the HR team takes place, except for CCS staff where other arrangements apply. The new employee's line manager is responsible for ensuring that he or she has a comprehensive departmental induction and the manager will be asked for details of this to be sent to the HR section. It is advised that a comprehensive work programme detailing all tasks to be undertaken and identifying who will be responsible for the training is drawn up by the line manager. The manager will normally hold regular meetings during the employee's probation period to discuss progress, and notes of these meetings should be retained.
- 2.4 A probationary review will be held in line with the council's probationary scheme towards the end of the first six months of employment and managers will identify any additional training required at this stage.
- 2.5 Once the probationary period is completed the manager may choose to carry out a preliminary appraisal with the staff member to set out their key objectives, linked to the section's Service Plan, if these have not already been agreed. The exact timing of the preliminary appraisal would depend on its proximity to the normal annual appraisal process. Any identified training and development needs would be recorded in the training needs section of the appraisal.

- 2.6 It shall be the responsibility of line managers to provide all new and promoted staff with such on-the-job training as is appropriate to enable them to perform safely, efficiently and effectively.

3 Training and Development Needs - Existing Staff

- 3.1 Corporate aims and annual key tasks will be cascaded down through the organisation through its communication and corporate planning mechanisms, supplemented by the appraisal process. The appraisal process will provide feedback on past performance and will set out work objectives, targets and training and support needs for the following year. It will also provide the employee with the opportunity to identify his/her training needs and career aspirations. The resulting development needs will be recorded in priority order and thought given as to how these needs can best be met. Managers should follow the guidance given in the council's Appraisal Guidance Notes.
- 3.2 Line managers and HR should consider all types of learning experience, including both internal and external course attendance, e-learning, apprenticeships, National Vocational Qualifications, mentoring and secondment.
- 3.3 Liaison between managers and HR will take place to allow the most cost-effective corporate training to be provided for common training needs.
- 3.4 It is important that managers are aware of current Continuous Professional Development (CPD) requirements for their staff, as often many of these can be met by activities other than course attendance.
- 3.5 All training and development provision must be planned, delivered and monitored on the basis of equal access for all, including part time staff and shift workers. Time-off and day release for a part-time employee undertaking training will normally be given pro rata to his or her working hours. When a part-time employee is required to attend a training course on their day off, time off in lieu or payment will normally be given based on their hours of attendance unless otherwise agreed
- 3.6 In addition to the Corporate Induction Programme, all non-managerial staff will participate in other corporate training from time to time as appropriate.

4 Management Development

- 4.1 This council is committed to the management development of staff at supervisor and manager level through apprenticeship programmes or other courses where appropriate.
- 4.2 All managers will therefore be required to attend management training. This will include manager's toolkit modules and up-dates on subjects that are essential for successful line management. Staff newer to management or where some refresher training would be helpful, may in particular be required to attend training. For development reasons, this can also include some staff who do not currently have any management responsibilities.

- 4.3 Management development training ensures that managers have the necessary skills and competencies to meet the council's stated targets and priorities, and to manage and empower staff. Management development gives managers at all levels the confidence and necessary skills to follow through their part in delivering the council's overall objectives, which reflect the priorities set out in the Corporate Plan. To this end, all management development training is reviewed against the council's corporate objectives on a regular basis. This may include accredited professional management qualifications.

5. Health and Safety and Computer Skills Training

- 5.1 The Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations require risk assessment of work activities to identify training requirements. Provision has to take account of the capability of those undertaking the training. It must also include information on the hazards of the work, the safety arrangements and limits and emergency procedures. Training is also required when there are changes to the work or changes in responsibility.
- 5.2 There is also a requirement to ensure that such training takes place during work hours and is repeated periodically where appropriate. The requirements for health and safety training and / or maintaining qualifications includes temporary workers. Staff may be required to complete coursework for competency training such as risk assessment, manual handling and first aid training.
- 5.3 Health and safety legislation on specific hazards may determine that additional factors should be included in training on issues such as manual handling, asbestos, hazardous substances, display screen equipment etc.
- 5.4 It is not only necessary to train new entrants in health and safety, but to ensure that existing employees' knowledge is kept up-to-date. The council has committed itself to providing in-house support for health and safety training and has developed a comprehensive on-line and conventional training programme for this area. Line Managers, with appropriate advice and support from the Health and Safety team, shall assess the training needs of their staff.

6 Equalities

- 6.1 Equalities training forms an essential element of induction and management training and all staff will be required to undertake periodic equalities awareness training. It is the council's objective that at minimum at least one member of each recruitment interviewing panel must have completed equalities and recruitment and selection training (either conventional training or via e-learning) including knowledge of relevant equalities legislation and related council policies.

7 Member Training Requirements

- 7.1 A comprehensive programme of induction training will take place for all new councillors and refresher training for re-elected members following the council elections every four years. A number of factors will determine the extent and manner of future training such as new legislation, and the development needs that councillors themselves identify.

8 Service Plans

- 8.1 It is the responsibility of each section manager to prioritise the training needs of his / her staff and to document them in the Service Plan for their section. This is based on the individual training needs identified during staff appraisals. By prioritising training needs according to the importance of the business objectives they relate to, the council can target the funds available for training, so the positive effect on business performance is maximised.
- 8.2 Training budgets are decided by the Senior Leadership Team (SLT) based on the learning and development needs presented within Service Plans.
- 8.3 The HR Manager will liaise with the SLT to identify those changes in high level corporate objectives which will impact on strategic learning and development requirements for the year ahead.
- 8.4 On an annual basis, the HR Manager will submit to SLT the planned corporate training courses for the year ahead, the training sections of the Service Plans for each section plus ICT, corporate health & safety and Member training requirements.
- 8.5 SLT will have the authority to vary any planned training expenditure to meet previously unforeseen needs. Whilst it is the responsibility of each Divisional Manager to monitor the training expenditure within their own service, the HR Manager will monitor corporate training expenditure throughout the council.

9 ICT Skills Training

- 9.1 We offer staff skills training in the main ICT packages used at the council (e.g. Outlook, Excel, Word, and PowerPoint) at various levels for those staff requiring this. Staff will also be offered training for new systems and databases introduced for their service area that they will be expected to use.

10 Review Mechanisms

- 10.1 Managers will be expected to discuss the objectives of each designated training event with the employee prior to attendance and to discuss the learning outcomes following the event. Attendees on short courses and qualification training events, both internal and external, will be required to complete course evaluation forms indicating their assessment of the effectiveness of the training event.

- 10.2 The contribution of learning and development on performance, productivity etc. will be reviewed at the employee's annual appraisal. In respect of those staff that participate in management development programmes, the prospective participant's Divisional Manager or equivalent must discuss their participation with HR prior to the commencement of any programme. They will also normally be required to provide written feedback to HR after the completion of the programme assessing the difference in their staff member's performance and attitude. In addition to the above, the outcome of training events should be discussed at Team Briefings.

11 Short Course Reservations

- 11.1 Technical and professional short courses and up-dates and Continuous Professional Development (CPD) should be organised by sections as authorised by their Divisional Manager. Before any training events are booked, an individual and their manager must consider what they are expecting to learn from the particular learning experience, whether it represents value for money (use of time, course fees, travel costs etc) and how they anticipate it will help them achieve their key tasks.

12 Qualification Training

- 12.1 Professional qualification training expenditure is managed corporately and staff will be supported in this training on the basis of agreement between the relevant Divisional Manager and the HR Manager, where funding is available.
- 12.2 Qualification training will only be provided and funded where it is appropriate and necessary for an individual to do a particular job. Divisional Managers will need to be convinced that the individual needs a particular professional or technical qualification to successfully undertake his/her duties.
- 12.3 The employee applying to undertake such training will need to complete the appropriate form from HR which is then countersigned by the HR Manager. The form includes an undertaking in terms of the repayment of fees and expenses as a result of:
- a) unsatisfactory progress for which no acceptable explanation can be provided; or
 - b) resignation from the council's employment within a period of two years from the date of completion of the qualification or the course of study.

The sums to be repaid shall comprise all course fees, subsistence, travel expenses and any other financial assistance provided (not including salary costs) during the entire course of study except where the date of resignation occurs more than 12 months after the date of the completion of the qualification or course of study - in which case the repayment requirements shall be reduced by 50%.

- 12.4 The individual's progress will be monitored closely by both his/her own manager and by HR. Where an individual fails exams then the situation will be reviewed and a decision taken as to whether the council will fully or partly support resits. Each case will be looked at on its merits.
- 12.5 In cases where an individual fails examinations on more than two occasions, it is likely that the council will terminate its support.

13 Fees and Leave

- 13.1 The council will normally pay for all course and examination fees plus any other associated costs for the first attempt at an examination although this may be varied where the HR Manager and the relevant Divisional Manager consider it appropriate for the employee to make a contribution.
- 13.2 Staff will normally be granted paid leave to attend courses and examinations. Paid revision leave will also be granted for qualification courses, on the basis of one half-day leave for each examination sat. Paid leave for a part-time employee undertaking qualification training will normally be given pro rata to his or her working hours (see 3.5). The time span for making up any deficit in time will be decided by the staff member's line manager taking into account other commitments, including caring responsibilities that the employee may have.
- 13.3 Where exams are resat, then the payment of exam fees will be reviewed jointly by the relevant manager and the HR Manager and a decision made as to what funding and time-off (if any) can be given.
- 13.4 Absence during working hours to attend training will be credited at the rate of 7 hours 24 minutes for a full day and 3 hours 42 minutes for a half day. For attendance on mandatory training courses, staff at grade 5 or below (or equivalent) will be allowed to claim back appropriate travelling time that exceeds their normal travel to work time. Time spent away from home other than travelling time is excluded. The above also specifically excludes travel in relation to professional qualification training.

14 Travel Expenses

- 14.1 Travel expenses will only be reimbursed at the cost of the Standard Class rail fare. Only in exceptional circumstances will mileage rate be paid for the use of a car. Prior approval should be obtained from the HR Section.

15 Professional Subscriptions

- 15.1 The council will reimburse the annual subscription to a professional body for staff undergoing approved qualification courses, provided that membership is a pre-requisite of attending the course. The council will pay one professional subscription after qualification for all qualifying staff.

16 Unsatisfactory Progress

- 16.1 If any member of staff fails to complete a course satisfactorily without good reason, has unauthorised absence from training sessions, or receives adverse reports in areas such as attendance, application and commitment, this may be treated as a formal matter within the council's disciplinary or capability procedures.
- 16.2 It is the responsibility of all staff attending qualification training courses to notify the HR Manager immediately of any perceived deficiencies in the quality of the course materials or in the capabilities of the course lecturers which they consider could impact on their ability to successfully complete the course or pass the qualification.

17 Recording Training Attended

- 17.1 All training organised within services must be recorded on "People Manager" Learning Events for each staff member, once attended, by their service manager (who should also record their own training in this way). All corporately organised training provided by HR, Health & Safety or the ICT section is up-dated on the system centrally.
- 17.2 In addition the council will keep and monitor a full record of all expenditure on training and related expenses.

18 Staff appraisals - Performance & Development Reviews and Job Chats

- 18.1 Managers are required to ensure that staff appraisals and Job Chats are carried out annually with each member of staff setting out the agreed objectives and training requirements for the year ahead, linked to the section's Service Plan.
- 18.2 The HR Section will record details of appraisal dates and will supply regular reports to CMT to enable them to monitor compliance with the appraisals process.
